Relias Healthcare announced today that it has welcomed Blake Jeter as Chief Operating Officer for the Mississippi-based healthcare solutions company. Jeter has assumed corporate operational leadership and brings his expertise in leadership and organizational strategy from his years of service in management consulting.

"Bringing Blake on the team at Relias is a cornerstone moment for our organization." Says Luke West, RH's Chief Executive Officer, "As we grow, it is absolutely essential that our partners and our providers only feel the positive aspects of that scale and Blake's expertise will allow us to execute on our commitment to our providers, partners, and patients through the exciting seasons ahead for Relias."

ABOUT JETER:

Jeter joins Relias Healthcare from Cambria Solutions, a national management and technology consulting company based in Sacramento, California. Jeter started Cambria's office in Jackson, MS in 2012 and helped steward its growth to more than 40 resources in the state and 150 across several more offices in the eastern United States. Jeter joins Relias at a time of rapid growth, subsidiary expansion, and a renewed commitment of caring for its clinicians during the COVID-19 pandemic and beyond.

"Coming to Relias Healthcare is like coming home." Jeter says. "The opportunity to join a company that is not only the regional leader in healthcare solutions, but has a tremendous culture was just something I could not pass up.
